No food, 3 dead

By J.D. ARONSON
Of the Reckit Staff

Three people were killed last week as the newly formed cafeteria union 714, went on strike. The dead, including senior Adelbart Stefansky, freshman Tom Bodamer, and professor Dr. William Chapman, crossed picket lines on their way to lunch. Each victim was beaten about the head with picket signs and kitchen ladles.

This is a cutline. It tells you who the picture is of and why it's on the front page. What, when, and where are also considered important. But, you morons, that's what the story is for, so read it, not this.

The union, which was supposed to protect the worker's rights, instead has started numerous riots and has caused several injuries, not to mention the three fatalities. President Herb Reinhard seems to be unworried, yet still cautious about the situation. "The national guard in on their way," Reinhard said, in a press conference held in the College Union MPR. "I believe the situation will be under control within a matter of hours," the president added at the conference which was held last Friday.

Stefansky and Bodamer were going to lunch last Thursday, following their 10:00 class. According to a witness who wishes to remain unidentified, the two students came upon the picket lines which stretched across both Boozel and Weisenluh dining halls. "The kids were verbally assaulted by the Boozel picket," the witness testified. "Then there was 'violent pushing'," the witness added. An autopsy done on the students showed they died of severe beatings to both the head and neck.

Meanwhile, the students have not been able to use the Cafe since last Tuesday. The students, for the present, are being fed through CARE which normally feeds the people of the third world countries.

Joe Luxthelm, head of the newly formed FUC (Food Union Corporation), is missing and hasn't been seen since the walkout. Joe said he was going out to get a pack of cigarettes," his wife said. Apparently, Luxthelm may be the fourth victim of the riots.

Chapman, a meteorology professor, ate at the cafeterias occasionally. As he approached Boozel last week, he was met by a 6'10", 275 lb. cafeteria worker. Chapman coolly replied, "Make like a water droplet and evaporate!" Apparently, the employee did not take kindly to this remark, because he took a ladle and clubbed the professor several times with it. Chapman was pronounced dead at the scene.

As for the current happenings, Reinhard plans to take some kind of action eventually. "They can kill only so many people before they need their paychecks," the president concluded.

Administration loses its Theta Chi recognition at SR

By J.D. ARONSON
Of the Reckit Staff

Slippery Rock's administration, which includes vice-presidents, public relations directors, and the college president himself, has lost its status as an administration due to a large number of incidents and a low IQ status, said a representative of Theta Chi.

The representative said that the administration did not show commitment to "fun at the Rock," gave no get well cards to students in the infirmary, billed excess tuition, and "partied" too much in Old Main.

According to another source, who wishes to remain unidentified, the administration was constantly being visited by "ladies of the evening," was disorderly, and participated in overage drinking. Theta Chi has received six or seven reports of disorderly conduct in Old Main during the past semester. The administration will not lose its governing policies for good, just for one semester. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is still backing "Herb and his buddies," an official said.

Theta Chi started taking action last fall. In a conversation with their national president, he said he was amazed at the administration's conduct and I.Q. Also, the administration never filed their income taxes. While on probation, the administration cannot occupy Old Main, attend business lunches, or promote the college with fan clubs or t-shirts.

In order to get back in good standing, the SR administration must change from Slippery Rock University (SRU) to Slippery Rock Bar and Grill (SRBG). They must also get their I.Q.'s up, and they must "clean up" their act. Meanwhile, President Herb Reinhard is planning to take a job as the new "Rocky" for the upcoming semester. Al Matthews plans to write for the Reckit, and Robert Dawson will work for WRCK.

To these charges, the administration issued this statement: "We will be back. They can't do this to us. All those charges are lies. How can a school run without an administration? But most of all, what about all the good work we do for this place? We shall return more powerful than ever..."

WRCK to go TV

By MARK RADZIEWICZ
Of the Reckit Staff

The Federal Communication Commission gave WRCK Radio the permission yesterday, to switch from radio broadcasting to television broadcasting.

WRCK will begin transmission on channel 58 beginning July 1, just in time for the change-over from a college to a university. WRCK-TV facilities will be located in the Multi-purpose Room of the College Union.

This is trapped white space, we're supposed to avoid it, but no one notices anyway, so why bother????

Hugh Slack Jr., General Manager of WRCK-TV said, "We've decided to scrap the whole radio bit, we feel the station doesn't reach enough people." WRCK radio presently sends its closed circuit signal to the cafeterias and dormitories. Slack hopes the television idea will show off the talents of our students and faculty, to viewers throughout the United States. WRCK's television project will cost nearly $5.5 million to complete. Construction for the TV station will begin sometime within the next few weeks.

According to Slack, "TV-58 will give students and professors a chance to gain a working knowledge of standard television equipment and job procedures." The station will also give broadcasting students a chance to experience their shows being cancelled, therefore they will be able to face the problems of unemployment in the television industry.

Some of the semester programming was revealed at a luncheon yesterday at Weisenfluh Dining Hall. Starting in September, Fred Rogers formally of "Mr. Rogers' Neighborhood" will star in a program designed for freshmen entitled "Dr. Rogers' Classroom." Rogers received an honorary doctorate from Slippery Rock State College in December. Dr. Rogers has decided to keep the theme song that he has sung for many years on his PBS children's series.

Dr. Herb Reinhard will also host a show on TV-58, called "Fraternity Feud," where two fraternities from campus will try to win gift certificates from the Rock Beer Barn. Reinhard is excited about his opportunity to host such a show. "It gives me a chance to get out of the office, and also keep out of the hair of my fellow administrators (those who have hair that is...)," besides Nancy loves the idea," said Reinhard.

Reinhard also said, "This television station will give Slippery Rock a great name around the country, I just hope it doesn't get screwed up, that would be a real bummer."

Captain Edward McGill of Campus Police will host "The Student's Court," a show where the students can fight for their rights as well as, parking tickets and alcohol violations. WRCK-TV will also feature the new soap opera "Old Main...Love it or Leave It," and the World News will be broadcasted each day at 5 p.m. with Paul Long from TV-4 in Pittsburgh.

Lottery system sucks

By JOE BOTACROCHIE
Of the Reckit Staff

Slippery Rock State College President Herb Reinhard entered the 1983 housing lottery - and lost.

Along with many Slippery Rock students, Herb put his name into the lottery and was not picked. Reinhard's wife Nancy, and their children also lost in the lottery. This means that as of today, the Reinhard's move out, and a new tenant moves in.

The Reinhard's plan to move into the beautiful acres of the No-Tel Motel, located at 215 N. Main St. The new tenant of the spacious SRSC presidential estate, was announced as the English Department's own Hunter Davis. Davis plans to redecorate the house in early American, while still having "wild parties" on the terrace.

Reinhard camped out all night, in front of Rhoads Hall in order to be the first in line at the Residence Life Office. "Nancy and I were really hoping for a shot at Stanley B. Krause Hall," the president commented.

Herb and Nancy arrived at their new "plush" suite today, and seemed to be quite excited. As Herb moved his SRUP banner to the picture window, he was heard saying, "The lottery system really s?k?!"

Cleaning annoys students

By MOE MOPHEAD
Of the Reckit Staff

Of all the pet peeves one can think about on this campus, the one that is most annoying are the cleaning people. Don't get the wrong idea, these certain individuals are nice, hard working, and very helpful to the students, it's just their work habits that are irritating.

The cleaning ladies in the library have to be the worst—that is, where noise is concerned. Everyone knows how frustrating it is trying to cram in as much information as possible an hour before a major exam, but picture this: There you sit, buried in the stacks on the third floor; total silence.

Then it happens. The cleaning lady starts emptying the garbage cans. Okay, you can handle that little distraction. But wait, now it's time to vacuum. You really don't mind that until the woman started vacuuming the chairs and the tables you were sitting at and sucked up about two pages of notes, not to mention your M&M's.

The cleaning people in the library are not the only ones to complain about. If you live in a dorm you know that even though your cleaning lady is a sweetheart, she always manages to vacuum the hall while your favorite soap is on, causing you to miss the better portion of the dialogue. She also manages to vacuum just when you decided to catch a few Z's. And it always seems inevitable that the bathrooms run out of toilet paper every weekend. She does that to prove how much you rely on her.

Classroom buildings are another matter. It never fails, whenever mother nature calls and you have to go soon or you'll explode, the bathroom on the floor is always closed for cleaning. So you race up another flight of stairs only to find that one closed for cleaning too. There's nothing better for the bladder than bouncing up and down three flights of stairs.

The cleaning people always seem to sweep and mop the floors at the busiest time of the day; in between classes. You always feel guilty using the stairs or walking in a hall when someone has just finished mopping them.

What can you do? Apologize even though they'd love to kill you for messing up their nice, clean floors? There are solutions; find an alternative route to class and risk being late, or just don't go to class at all.

The only cleaning people that you can't find fault with are the ones who clean the College Union. They do all their work at night after closing and don't disturb anyone. Too bad it wasn't that simple all over campus!

This cleaning woman efficiently performs her duties by sucking up garbage (including notes). (Photo by Kimbo.)

Ancient tomb discovered

By SCOOP VERALLI
Of the Reckit Staff

Archaeologists and anthropologists across the U.S. were shocked at the discovery of an ancient tomb recently uncovered beneath the Sheetz Kwik Shopper parking lot.

"We don't know whose tomb it is but we've been able to date it back to 1000 B.C.," said Harry Schwartz, president of the Archaeological Association of America (AAA).

According to Sheetz' officials the tomb was discovered by accident last Thursday while construction crews were fixing a gas leak. The AAA was notified immediately and flew experts in the same day.

Artifacts from the tomb including stone tablets, rare jewels, and a well preserved mummy are currently being examined by specialists in the field, after which they will be put on display at the Museum of Natural History in New York.

Students and merchants share mixed emotions about the discovery.

Russell Scott, a neighbor of Sheetz, stated angrily "the jackhammering at 8 a.m. makes enough noise to wake the dead, so I don't see how there could be anyone down there."

Some merchants feel it will boost business. "We're thinking of changing our hot dog special to a 'death dog' special," said a spokesman for Sheetz. "We think it's a neat idea and we really believe that students can relate to it."

Bowies with their new album, Incest: The Best. In a few days they plan to issue two singles from the album, "Why Does Mommy Get Jealous?" and "Keeping It In The Family."

The Rolling Stones are currently working on assembling each show.

However, Osbourne's plans to sacrifice a virgin each concert may be in jeopardy because of two pending law suits. The first suit is being brought by a religious group claiming they want proof that each girl sacrificed a new greatest hits album that will include only songs they recorded in the 1980's. This album, which is made in the same format as their latest anthology album, Sucking In The Seventies will be called Eating Out The Eighties.

Also, on the Rolling Stones front, Mick Jagger has denied reports that he plans to donate his lips to science. However, Jagger does plan to get a sex change operation this summer as soon as he decides what sex he wants to be now.

Speaking of summer plans, listeners of highly sophisticated music should take note that Ozzy Osbourne will be touring the U.S. this summer. During his summer concerts, Osbourne plans to bite the heads off of several live animals and sacrifice a virgin is truly a virgin. The second suit is being sought by veteran rock star, Alice Cooper, who is claiming that Osbourne is stealing his old act. Cooper was heard to say, "What is this guy doing? I have been sacrificing virgins for years." Cooper plans to record a protest song about the incident to be entitled, "Ozzy Sucks-So Sacrifice Him."

Pittsburgh's own Norm Nardini and the Tigers plan to release their first album, Eat'n Alive. The new album is to be called Screwing The Dead.

Southern rock fans will be pleased to know that the remaining members of Lynyrd Skynyrd and the Allman Brothers plan to form a new group to be called The Rebels. This summer The Rebels plan to release their first record to be called, The South's Last Stand, which will include songs such as "Punk Is Just Junk," and "Who's Trying To Kill Rock."

The Talking Heads are extremely upset over the forthcoming Rebels album so they have recorded a counter-album to be called So What If We Suck, At Least We Have Short Hair and Money. When asked about the Talking Heads' new record, The Rebel's Greg Allman commented, "If good taste in music prevails, people won't buy their record and they will buy ours." However, Allman added, "Good taste probably won't prevail. I mean six million people in this country bought REO Speedwagon records, so you know at least six million people in this country can't tell good music from shit."

Finally, while Greg Allman hopes good taste in music prevails, Pete Townshend of The Who will not be tasting any liquor this summer. While he is recording his new record this summer Townshend plans to quit drinking. In a related story, England's three largest gin producers plan to go out of business this summer.

Recent renovations on SRSC campus will improve SRUP

By GWENNY
Reckit Features Editor

The recent renovations to the SRSC campus, costing more than the budget allows, were designed in compliance with the Health Services Action Committee to make the campus more accessible to handicapped students.

According to Dr. Ellen Perrin, position unknown, "The renovations will only cater to approximately six students, but since it's the taxpayer's money funding the program, area residents won't disapprove the 10 percent tax hike."

With the renovations 90 percent completed, two students confined to wheelchairs have unsuccessfully attempted to go down the ramp in front of Morrow Field House. Apparently, both victims made it about half way down the ramp before overturning from speeds too high for conditions. Jack Weller, Building Maintenance Foreman, claims "the 70 degree angle is definitely too steep for the students to keep control of a wheelchair. Oh well,

Radiation talk

we tried."

The elevators, designed to give a paraplegic an extra two-foot boost, were installed in front of the Art Building and in the lobby of ECB. Weller continued to conclude, "Sure, the elevators are a great idea if we could only keep the other students from tossing trash and garbage into them."

Another part of the renovation is the widening of doorways. The doorways, widened in the College Union, SWC, ECB, VSH, and Library, allow for a two path entrance, with one doorway twice the width of the other, for easier wheelchair accessibility. The doors, weighing approximately 50 pounds each, only permit passage through the narrow entrance by a person weighing less than 100 pounds.

As of yet, most of the students have shown no objection to the renovation, but few have expressed the need for other improvements on campus. The biggest complaint came from Kiestler residents who claim they have to walk up the sloping steps between the College Union and the lake. Weller concluded, "We hope to make many more renovations to the SRSC campus, beginning with the steps in about five years."

These new doors, designed to permit easier accessibility for wheelchairs to and from classroom buildings, were part of the SRSC renovation. The renovations will add to the new SRUP statue. (Photo by Kimbo.)

Students beat man to death

By DAVE MARTIN
Of the Reckit Staff

A Slippery Rock man was brutally beaten to death this afternoon.

After appearing in all of Joseph Normand's journalism courses at least five times a semester, the students decided that they had had enough of Harry Schwartz and decided to pound him to death.

An eyewitness said that, apparently, one student yelled "NOW" and the whole class pounced on Schwartz and beat him to death with their typewriters. The witness was too broken up to continue, and so was Schwartz.

Schwartz will be buried on Tuesday in the Joe Doe Memorial Cemetery.

The whole class was executed in a multiple gas chamber about an hour after the murder. The judge said; "the right to a fair trial and freedom of speech--it's all bullshit."

Charlie Slaight and Paul "Peeps" Paterra said, while they were waiting for the poisonous gas to fill their lungs, "We did it to stop Schwartz once and for all. We had to protect future generations of journalism students from this type of tyranny."

Herb said, "They were trying to improve the curriculum to help the school's university program. Frankly, I think the kids got screwed."

Normand had "no comment."

Boozel Dining recycles food

By KIM "I LOST IT AT BOOZEL" SCHLUDECKER
Reckit Managing Editor

A new concept in recyclable foods has been tested this year in Boozel Dining Hall. In order to obtain unbiased results, SR students were never officially notified of the experiment. However, many students caught on as the year wore on.

Recyclable foods, which may be used for a variety of dishes and hundreds of times, have long been a standard at food serving institutions. In the past, however, these foods were easily recognizable after as few as four or five meals. The method is being refined in hopes of hiding from diners the fact that today's chili is last year's sloppy joes.

These foods lost none of their subtly nonexistent taste, even after 450 reheatings, and 300 freezings. Many different meals can be made from only three types of recyclable foods.

The first of these types has been around for years. This is mystery mush. The base consists of ground soybean, textured to look like Alpo, and a red sauce artificially flavored to taste like artificial tomatoes.

Usually mystery mush's first use is as sloppy joes or tacos. Chili, lasagna, goulash, spaghetti, and "beef" stew can also be made from mystery mush.

Some of the more creative uses of mush include boiling it down and forming it into meatloaf or Salisbury steak. Adding pineapple, serving it on chow mein noodles, and passing it off as Chinese food has also been attempted. The possibilities are limitless.

Another type is the breaded, all-purpose, light meat patty. By mere power of suggestion, it can be veal, chicken, pork, or occasionally, fish. These patties can also be served with mystery mush red sauce or any one of the many unidentifiable cream sauces.

The third food is an old favorite -- soybean by-product

What to do with your Rocket---

(Since none of you can read.)

Many students have said that, "The Rocket ain't good fer nuthin'."

These students are terribly mistaken and I will go about proving this once and for all.

In this pictorial essay, those of you who cannot read can see four excellent usages of the Rocket. The pictures show the Rocket acting as a sleeper's sunshade, a fresh fish wrapper, a birdcage liner, and last but not least--leasure-time reading material.

There are several others uses also, like litter box and puppy playpen linings; a sportsman can use it when there are no leaves; rolled, it can kill flies; folded it can be used as a table football, crumpled, as a basketball.

Finally, if you absolutely can't think of anything else to do with your Rocket you can, GOD FORBID, sit down and read it.

"What do you think about the Rocket?"

"Photographically, I think the paper sucks. I wish the damn Editors would learn how to crop pictures. Especially the Sports Editor."

"The sports coverage is excellent, it's the best part. I look forward to reading the sports pages every Friday. Although, I wish the Graphics Editor would be more appreciative, considering I use 99 percent of the sports pictures printed."

Jojo Bodnar

"It's been a lot of fun and a good experience except for late-night Wednesday nights, reporters never meeting deadlines, fighting for stories, turning people away after Tuesday, noon who want to put classifieds in the paper and the type-setting machine breaking down."

"I think the Rocket is a wonderful teaching device. It taught me how to hate: the English Dept., people with announcements, people with classifieds and you."

Ken Bryk

"The Rocket serves an important purpose on campus. It gives everyone a common enemy to unite against."

Kim Schludecker

"Except for reading the entire Rocket three days before it's printed, I think it's okay. I have nothing else to do on Wednesday nights, so why not go insane correcting misspellings?"

Serious Sports Weather unfair to SR diamondmen with Steelers

Meteorologists see it as foul weather. Slippery Rock State College baseball coach Wally Rose sees it as "an unfortunate situation." But no matter how you look at it, the abrupt ending of the Slippery Rock baseball season is most of all untimely.

Riding an impressive 13-game winning streak, Rose's Rockets fell victim to the latest deluge punishing the region, forcing the cancellation of Slippery Rock's final six games of the season. All told, the spring's inclement weather caused 15 games to be cancelled while four other doubleheaders were postponed.

lowing last year's 29-9-1 Pennsylvania Conference championship team. The Rockets finish with a 10-6 mark in the PC West, but they trail both California State (11-3) and Indiana Pa. (9-3) in the standings. The three PC division winners and a wild-card selection will advance to the PC championship playoffs May 6-7.

"We didn't start getting the timely hitting until just last week," Rose commented. "We lost seven one-run ball-games which could have very easily been victories had we gotten the key hit earlier in the season."

Muller signs as free agent with Steelers

Slippery Rock State College offensive tackle Jack Muller has signed a free-agent contract with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Muller, 6-4 and 265 pounds, was an honorable mention All-American following his senior year last fall. He reportedly turned down an offer from the Philadelphia Eagles to sign with the Steelers.

Also signing over the weekend with the Steelers were running back Tim Harris of Washington State, wide receiver Darryl Crane of Bethune-Cookman, and linebacker Ricky Goff of Tulane. A total of 16 free-agents have signed with the Steelers since the conclusion of the NFL Draft Wednesday morning.

The Rockets (20-15 overall) put together the second longest winning streak in Rose's 27-year tenure at the Rock by posting 13 victories in a seven-day period, outscoring their opponents 106-40. Slippery Rock's 1968 squad rolled to 16 consecutive wins after dropping the season opener to account for the longest winning streak on record.

Last week's victories at Mercyhurst assured the Rockets of their second straight 20-win season, following last year's 29-9-1 Pennsylvania Conference championship team. The Rockets finish with a 10-6 mark in the PC West, but they trail both California State (11-3) and Indiana Pa. ed to be a big factor in turning the season around, as was our hitting. It is a frustrating way to end the season, but we closed out on a very positive note which will hopefully carry over into next season," Rose concluded. Eight SR regulars finished the '83 season hitting above the .300 mark, paced by senior Ralph Bowser's (.361 average). The pitching staff was led by senior Mike Staruch (4-1, 2.04 ERA), sophomore Chuck Ferron (3-1, 2.82) and freshman Scott Hunt (4-2, 2.58.)

Skaters fight off USSR

By BOB HAMILTON
Reckit Sports Writer

The Rock Ice Hockey Club turned the tables on the Russians last weekend in a close, yet violent game.

In an away game played at the Lenin Sports Complex in Irkut, Siberia, the Rock played the University of Irkut. After the usual long ride on the bus, the team showed its stamina by beating the Irkut Tundra Stompers, 5-4.

Coach Mike McHugh had his squad fired up from the start as evidenced by a three goal outburst in the first minute and a half. Goals were scored by Bob Hitchcock, Scott Civil, and Polish star Adabart Stefanski. Hitchcock found the net at 0:24 when he took a clearing pass from goalie P.J. Marsh, and skated in alone on a frustrated Vladislav Tretiak. The Soviet goalie witnessed two more goals filter through him before his team could get anything on the board.

Alexander Trysediaz tallied two goals before the end of the period to pull the Tundra Stompers to within one, but an aggressive, hard hitting Rock squad held their ground in period number two. The period went without a score, but the checking became so hard that numerous fights broke out. One occurred in front of the Russian net minder when Hitchcock took a stick to the face. He retaliated with several well placed rights to his opponents head. The young Russian was unable to continue as he suffered a concussion and many lacerations. Another fight erupted a few moments later, but this one was eight rows off the ice.

A Rock fan, known to us only as "Doc," was seriously hurt when a Soviet reporter punched him out for criticizing his remarks on the Rock team. At last report, the local hockey fan was in serious to guarded condition at the Lenin Health Service Clinic in Irkut. A team spokesman said the incident was being investigated by the State Department in Washington.

Getting back to the game, the third period featured a see-saw battle of scoring led by the crisp passing of the Tundra Stompers and the toughness of the Rocket Icers. After the teams exchanged three goals to knot the game at 4, Dan Caples took matters into his own hands to score the game winning goal at 19:37. When the ice was finally cleared of the many exuberant Slippery Rock fans, Marsh calmly turned away eight shots in the last twenty seconds to collect the upset of the century.

When asked what he thought about the Rocket team, the Tundra Stomper coach, Vladimir Weichenstasz, simply replied "Where the hell is Slippery Rock???"

The team will now rest up (mainly from their long bus ride) for two weeks before playing games against Ball State University, The University of Fritchville, and several contests against the Peruvian All-Stars. The Rock Icers will open next season with a scrimmage against the now Triple A Pittsburgh Penguins, within the "igloo" of the Civic Arena.

patties also known as mystery meat. Hamburgers and cheeseburgers are only the beginning for this wonderful food. Red, white, grey, brown, and yellow gravies of no particular flavor can also be used on top of these patties.

Many cooks complain that the most creative part of serving soybean by-product patties is thinking of names for them. While the most common name remains "I don't know," others include Italian steak, Salisbury steak, Puerto Rican filets, Polish patties, and Spanish rounds.

Peeps' farewell look at the 1982-83 Year in Sports

By PAUL "PEEPS" PATERRA
Reckit Sports Writer

It was a year in sports I'll always remember, A year that started way back in September.

It started off with all Don Ault's guys, Their 7-3 record was a pleasant surprise.

Gridders Dahlstrand, Muller, Allen and Emanuele Went All-American as they did real well.

The basketball team led by Troy and ole Bill Had a season that was really a thrill.

But their campaign came to an unfortunate crash,

On a night when we all watched the last M*A*S*H.

In the NFL they followed baseball's lead,

A strike in midseason we just did not need.

But when the players came back from vacation,

Balls filled the air all across the nation.

The Chargers piled up point after point,

While the Killer Bee defense rocked the joint.

The Redskins behind Riggins and Joe,

Had a quest for the Super Bowl and off they did go.

The Steelers tried a return to days of old,

You remember the years when they owned the gold.

But they ran into the right arm of Dan,

Whose pass to Winslow gave San Diego command.

The Steelers' disappointments did not end there,

Swann quit to pursue a career on the air.

That was followed by Pinney, McGriff, Smith, and Ham,

If they lose two or three more they're in a real jam.

In major league baseball Rickey was the talk, He broke the stolen base record once held by Lou Brock. In the national League Carlton was something to see, While no one else won 20 he won 23.

And Atlanta shocked us by winning their first 13, But fans all still thought it but a dream.

Yet the Braves showed that they would not fail, Not with long ball coming from league MVP Dale.

The Cardinals made all the National League news, Behind Ozzie, Lonnie, Joaquin and Bruce.

They were in the series for the first time in years, And after seven games they got all the cheers.

In the AL the Brew Crew and Angels did battle, Milwaukee had a team you just could not rattle.

Yount had a season you could not believe, And Baltimore said goodbye to "Old Weave".

In the NBA the Sixers took a championship stand, Let Moses lead us to the promised land.

Adding him to Toney and Dr. J.,

Could be what's needed to go all the way.

But the Lakers could be tough to defeat,

They have a goal and that's to repeat.

With Magic, Norm, Kurt, and Kareem,

LA may have the championship team.

The Celtics' season went up and down,

A rocky road if they wear a championship crown.

If they succeed we will just have to see

Especially after Danny Ainge ran into "Tree"

And the Spurs with Artis, Ice and Moore,

Proved to the league that they still could score.

But when scoring is talked off it's the Nuggets that top,

Kiki and English make them tough to stop.

In the NHL it's still that great kid Wayne,

Every city continually beckons his name.

Another great season for old number 99,

He won the league scoring title for the third straight time.

But Edmonton may have a surprise in store,

As they've made the Stanley Cup final four.

But when we think of the cup we cannot forget,

The team who feels their not out yet.

The Isles of New York are making their run,

To again say to the world that they're no. 1.

With Goring, Bossy, Tonelli and Trots,

How do you stop that many shots.

And the Bruins throughout the year have been leaders,

Because of the Rock in the nets they call Peeters.

And the Penguins well maybe next year,

Right now they're out playing golf drinking beer.

The college football season proves to be great,

Especially for Joe Paterno's Penn State.

They took on Herschel on New Year's night,

And found they were in for quite a fight.

But Warner fought off the Dogs and leg cramps,

And then the Lions were National Champs.

Then there was a college basketball team,

Who had a center by the name of AKeem.

They marched to the finals they blazed quite a track,

Until in Albuquerque they met a team called the pack.

Valvano's boys put the game in a stall

They were not going to let Phi Slama Jama have the ball.

It was a game that went down to the last tick,

A Wittenburg airball that Charles made stick,

But there is one disappointment in this college basketball camp,

Something I feel is, really a shame.

That Ralph a guy we just could not stop,

Never did lead his team to the top.

And in boxing Larry Holmes still knocks em out,

Randall "Tex" Cobb felt the Larry Holmes clout.

But the fights also lost the great Sugar Ray,

Whose career had to end or his sight goes away.

It was also a year we lost Willie and Bjorn,

And a man called the Bear whose loss we all mourn.

The last part of my poem I have dedicated to you,

The readers who've been with me and seen me through.

But before I leave you where the real world does call,

Just remember one thing, "I love you all."

Saxigina was SEXEGINA enough said.

The Jazz/Rock ensemble was originally ROCK OPERA, and it was directed by Yohan Bach himself. Previous to this it was called Rock-with-you directed by Michael Jackson.

Sheppeck traced the GREEKS back to ancient Greece, and oddly enough in 2000 B.C. - they were still called Greeks.

And now for the discovery which has affected us of the Reckit most of all.

On April 29, T.P. Sheppeck discovered that the Rocket's real name is the Reckit, and that is why we have changed our name flag.

So next year there will be 29 RECKITS and one Rocket at the end of the year. "This is how it was meant to be," said Sheppeck. "I was going to trace all of the names on campus, but I got tired so I said - 'The hell with it.'"

Weber admits to kleptomania

By PATRICK HART
Reckit Editor

Student Government Association President Mike Weber was caught stealing a lamp from the Union Programming Office Wednesday evening. Weber was first spotted with the lamp attempting to sneak up the College Union front staircase to the SGA office.

"Karen Pardoe said I could have it," he shouted as spectators got in his way. Pardoe is the newly elected President of the UPB (Union Programming Board). The lamp, valued at $25, was a fixture of the Programming Office until Weber found his own office, on the second floor of the College Union, was in need of lights.

"I understand what I did was wrong. I openly admit to being a lowly thief. I am a thief," cried Weber when he was confronted with the facts of his theft.

Weber openly admitted to his kleptomania, stating,

"This isn't the first time. I would have a list a mile long if I was to be totally honest."

As of press time, no charges had been brought against the president of the Student Government. "He is a scummy thief, and I never said he could have the lamp," charged Pardoe, "I didn't vote for him and I am glad now."

When informed of the disclaimer by a Reckit Editor, Weber shouted, "Who the hell does this Pardoe bitch think she is? She said I could have the lamp, and begged me to take it."

Following the final claim by Weber, Pardoe tore into him stating, "I can't believe that bastard would openly lie about this matter, I think he should be killed."

Secretary to the Student Government Association Doreen Jones came to Weber's defense claiming, "How could anyone say anything bad about such a cute hunk of man."

Spellin' errors abound

By DAVE MARTIN
Of the Reckit Staff

After discovering how to spell Kiester, T.P. Shepcock hit the streets trying to uncover more such errors; he is a modern crusader, and protector of the English Language.

First Shepcock went straight to the top: Olde Maine. Yes, what was previously thought to be OLD MAIN is actually OLDE MAINE. The English Dept. attributes this to a carry over of Shakespearean English. Shepcock said, "The guy who carved the first cornerstone was drunk. The Shakespeare stuff is crap."

After getting to Olde Maine, Shepcock became bold. He traced Herb F. Reinhard's family tree. He found that Herb's name was changed to Reinhard from Winehard. The Latin derivation of this name breaks down to become "lover of wine." The family had a reputation of being intense partiers. No wonder Herb found Slippery Rock.
